

Self-Reporting Statement

Please review the following instructions before submitting your self-report. Once you review this information and complete the accompanying statement, please submit your self-report with the statement and any supporting documentation via the Ethics Self-Reporting Form.

Instructions

1. Review the Self-Reporting section in the relevant certificant handbook (RBT Handbook, BCaBA Handbook, BCBA Handbook). If you are a BCBA, consider reviewing and discussing the situation you plan to self-report with your supervisor, manager, mentor, or a trusted colleague. If you are a BCaBA or RBT, you must review and discuss the situation with your BACB-required supervisor. Be sure to document all conversations related to the situation (e.g., draft summary notes and email them to the individual that you communicated with) and retain copies for your records. Do your best to identify specific standard(s) in the RBT Ethics Code \(2.0\) or Ethics Code for Behavior Analysts that relate to the information you plan to self-report. If you are unsure whether the situation requires self-reporting, the best course of action is to self-report.

2. Organize and combine all supporting documentation. This includes (a) the initial documentation regarding the situation (e.g., tickets, charging documents, notices of investigation, complaint reports), (b) any documentation providing updates on the situation (e.g., updates from an investigator, findings of fact), (c) any final documentation, if applicable (e.g., case closure letters, final determinations, consent orders, acceptance into diversion programs, records of satisfactory completion of court orders), and (d) any additional correspondence that is relevant to the situation or follow-up actions.

Once you have gathered the supporting documentation, please do the following:

1. Ensure that the date, time, and any necessary contextual information (e.g., name[s] of individual[s] sending or receiving emails or text messages) can be seen in all screenshots of websites, emails, and text messages.
2. Redact any protected or identifying information (e.g., client name, address, date of birth). You can replace this information with generic terms (e.g., Name, Gender, XX/XX/XX) or black it out (e.g., highlight in black, cover with black box, cover with black marker or correction ink/tape before scanning).
3. Convert any documents containing sensitive information to PDFs so that they cannot be altered.
4. Arrange all supporting documentation in chronological order.
5. If possible, combine all supporting documentation into one PDF. To keep things organized, name each piece of supporting documentation, add page numbers, and create a table of contents, especially if you plan to submit many detailed pages of supporting documentation.

Note: If you cannot provide supporting documentation, please explain why and if/when you expect to receive it in your statement.

3. Complete the following statement and submit it and all supporting documentation with your self-report. The statement allows you to provide the BACB with additional context and information that might not be readily available or apparent when the BACB reviews your documentation. Please complete the Standard Information to Include for All Situations section as well as any other sections that are relevant to the situation you plan to self-report. Then, put your last name in the file title, download the statement and all supporting documentation to your computer, and upload them with your self-report via the Ethics Self-Reporting Form.

Note: For the purposes of self-reporting, funder refers to any entity (e.g., healthcare organization, state or federally funded service, commercial payer, managed care organization, educational institution, other payment entity) that you have contracted with to provide behavior-analytic, educational, or health-care services.
